

Air Management Services are now offering a 'Removal of Redundant Equipment' service to remove old equipment on rooftop properties which really should no longer be there and have probably just been left over the years due to either being too difficult to organise or the service simply was not on offer.

In the interests of creating & cleaner & more efficient roof space / work place we are now pleased to offer this service in addition to our core HVAC Servicing & Installation business.

We will determine what outdoor equipment has been decommissioned over the years but not removed & is of no practical use, we pull the equipment apart & organise our crane team to safely remove it from the rooftop & dispose of it with having the least impact on the environment as possible.

We then make sure that the roof is sealed from where the equipment was removed from to ensure that there aren't any air or water leaks which will allow the equipment that is in operation to work as efficiently as possible.

We offer an obligation free quote for your site.
